steeped in history and

Folklore

As you sweep down the grand tree lined driveway you know you have arrived somewhere special.

Legend dictates that it was once the residence of King Arthur and Queen Guinevere, and that the Black Prince – during turbulent times – once hid his wife for four months in one of the tunnels supposedly linked to Pencoed.

The origins of the estate remain the subject of much debate, but it seems most likely that it was built by Jevan ap David, a Welsh notable, in the early fifteenth century.

Whatever its origins, Pencoed House Estate is one of the oldest properties in the County of Glamorgan still occupied as a private residence, and remains a jewel in the County's crown.

In the foreground, a table is set with white linens, glassware, and a centerpiece of pink and white flowers. A small photo of a couple is placed on the table. The background shows more tables and chairs, and a large window with greenery outside.

the perfect photographic backdrop

Thirty six acres of breathtaking grounds with immaculately manicured lawns, orchards, flower gardens, shrubbery, babbling brooks and woodland make the perfect photographic backdrop.

Our wooden children's play area and fun garden games will keep the younger guests amused – and don't miss the opportunity to take them on a leisurely stroll through the grounds to spot wild rabbits, squirrels, birds and of course the family's own ducks on the stream.
