you know you've arrived somewhere Truly special

As you glide down the grand tree-lined driveway towards Pencoed House, anticipation stirs — the majestic arched entranceway hinting that you've arrived somewhere truly special. Steeped in romance and quiet grandeur, the Estate once belonged to descendants of a King of Glamorgan.

Built in the early fifteenth century by Jevan ap David, its graceful Gothic arch still whispers of centuries past — some say the house began as a small monastery.

Today, Pencoed House Estate stands as one of Glamorgan's most enchanting treasures — an idyllic haven in the South Wales countryside, and the perfect fairytale setting for your wedding day.

a colourful tapestry of history & folklore

The origins of the estate remain the subject of much debate, but it seems most likely that it was built by Jevan ap David, a Welsh notable, in the early fifteenth century.

The inclusion of the pointed Gothic stone arch in the house's architecture has suggested to some that the house began life as a small monastery, whereas another theory is that the present day building is mainly the result of sixteenth century construction.

Whatever its origins, Pencoed House Estate is one of the oldest properties in the County of Glamorgan still occupied as a private residence, and remains a jewel in the County's crown.

Breathtaking grounds

The perfect backdrop

Thirty-six acres of stunning grounds - manicured lawns, orchards, flower gardens, brooks, and woodland - provide a perfect backdrop for any occasion.

Whether enjoying a Pimms reception, a croquet match, a 9-hole golf challenge, or simply a romantic ice cream on the patio, the outdoor space adapts effortlessly.

Little guests will delight in the wooden play area and garden games, while a gentle stroll reveals rabbits, squirrels, songbirds, and the family's ducks gliding along the water.

our stately banqueting hall

a versatile venue dressed to impress

The stately banqueting hall whispers of history, its ancient stone walls and magnificent vaulted ceiling echoing with the laughter of celebrations past. A grand log fire crackles at its heart, casting a golden glow that chases away the chill of winter nights.

The hall welcomes up to 120 seated guests or 200 for evening revelry, arranged as you desire - theatre, cabaret, or boardroom in style. For grander occasions beneath the stars, elegant marquees can be set amid the orchard, hosting up to 200 guests in soft candlelit splendour.

Beside the Old Hall, the charming Woodland Bar awaits - a secluded, warmly lit haven where guests gather for intimate pre-dinner toasts and lingering nightcaps under the spell of the estate.

wonderfully cosy licensed bar

An exclusive venue merits an exceptional bar, with its stone walls, plush plum upholstery, flickering fire and panoramic views of the woodland.

We are justifiably proud of our drinks selection, including an extensive wine list. Our champagne menu features a superb hand picked selection of Pol Roger vintages. And of course our resident mixologists are on hand to craft classic cocktails.

Once you have booked with us, you will be personally invited to attend one of our complimentary wine tasting evenings, giving you complete peace of mind that your selection perfectly matches your chosen menu.

Right from the first meeting we had with Jamie, and everyone else at Pencoed House, we felt comfortable and confident that everything was going to go to plan on our big day. The attention to detail and willingness to accommodate every request was a cut above any other venue we had seen. We were treated as if we were the only wedding they were hosting that year.

Whilst the initial draw to Pencoed house was the stunning buildings and immaculately kept gardens, it was the people and the service at Pencoed House which made the day so special.

The level of professionalism by Pencoed House on the day was incredible. Everything was timed and to perfection (apart from the bride!). No one had to do, or worry about anything on the day as the team had everything coordinated and under control.

We would, and have, recommended Pencoed House to everyone. Thank you to everyone at Pencoed House for making the day perfect.

We can't thank you enough for everything you did in the build up to and on the day of our wedding. From the moment we first visited we knew we'd found the perfect venue and you couldn't have made us feel more welcome and relaxed.

On the day the whole team were absolutely amazing, nothing was too much trouble and it really was the best day of our lives! Our photos of the day are stunning. Thank you again for being such a huge part of our special day, if only we could do it again

Our wedding was perfect in every way. We could not have wished for a better day. Getting married in December is a big gamble with the weather, but it was perfect for a winter wedding. The venue looked amazing! Jamie followed my instructions and everything was set up perfectly. The day ran smoothly we couldn't have ask for more.

We were very lucky to be able to have drinks and canapés outside before the wedding breakfast. We had use of the marque in the evening which was lovely and warm as the night got cooler. We made use of the cottage the night before the wedding so it was a very relaxed morning. The bridal cottage is beautiful and very quaint and a delicious continental breakfast was provided for the next day.

The canapés, wedding breakfast and evening buffet were amazing and we had many comments from the guests to say how good it was.

memories to last a lifetime

From the first day we visited you, we knew not only the venue was perfect, but that we would be in safe hands with everyone at Pencoed House.

You made us feel so welcome and it has been a joy to visit you leading up to the wedding. We are so sad we won't have as much reason to visit in the future! We see you as more than a venue; you have become friends and we hope we can keep in touch and hear more about developments in the future as we know Pencoed House is the place to get married in Wales!

We are so grateful for all your tireless efforts to make our day run so smoothly - Jamie is an excellent MC and I know that a lot of effort went on behind the scenes to make everything perfect.

A romantic wedding photograph of a bride and groom in a lush forest. The bride, with her hair styled in an updo and wearing a long white veil, holds a bouquet of white and yellow flowers. The groom, in a grey suit, has his arm around her. In the background, a large tree trunk is visible on the left, and a white heron stands in a grassy area. The scene is filled with green foliage and white flowers. A faint, stylized watermark of a heron is visible on the left side of the image.
